6. *The Hungarian Presidency intends to raise the following issues during the negotiations on the draft Conclusions in the SQWP

- Extensive research has confirmed that advancing the socio-economic integration of Roma is not only an urgent human rights goal, but also a process that will bring economic advantages by increasing the competitiveness of the EU and the sustainability of the Member States' social security systems, as well as reducing social problems. Hence Roma inclusion is not only the concern of a limited number of Member States, but a joint responsibility of the EU and all its Member States.
  - There is a need for measures, and programmes at all level; commitments at EU as well as at national level should be designated and agreed programmes should be implemented.
  - In the national strategies, a comprehensive and coordinated approach is needed. Specific priority areas should be identified. Moreover, the monitoring arrangements should be reinforced.

- Target groups should be defined on the basis of regional and social aspects, by applying the principle of explicit but not exclusive targeting, and thus a Europe-wide crisis map identifying the most disadvantaged micro-regions could be drawn up.
  - The alignment of national, regional and local policies and resources with interventions supported by the Structural Funds should be improved,
  - Better use of national and EU resources should be ensured.
