1. WELCOMES the Special Report No. 2/2013 by the European Court of Auditors: Has the Commission ensured efficient implementation of the seventh framework programme for research?<sup>11</sup>;
2. ACKNOWLEDGES the conclusions and recommendations of the Special Report and RECOGNISES in particular that:
  - over the course of FP7, the Commission has introduced a number of changes which have simplified the rules for participation but there is still room for further improvement, particularly in relation to the acceptance of beneficiaries' usual accounting practices;
  - the management of processes in process design, improvement activities and management information has been satisfying;
  - further efforts should be made to improve the effective and coherent implementation especially as regards the processes, the tools and resources used;
  - processes should be further improved in order to ensure the shortening of time-to grant;
  - the Joint Technology Initiatives and the Risk Sharing Finance Facility (RSFF) have met the needs for which they were created, including in attracting small and medium size enterprises; however, there is room for further improvement in the processes and focus of both instruments, as well as the need to better demonstrate that the funding provided through the RSFF leads to investments above what would have been undertaken without public money;
  - the control activities before and after payment should be made more risk driven in order to better focus the control effort.
3. WELCOMES the actions already undertaken by the Commission over the course of FP7 to rationalise the requirements and to improve its guidance documents for beneficiaries as well as the approach to further progress on the simplification in Horizon 2020.

  5. ENCOURAGES the Commission to continue its efforts to carry out in-depth analysis of the procedures to ensure better implementation of the framework programmes and, where appropriate, their consistency with other European programmes.
